

Vacancy Communication commissioner

Stichting Boerengroep is looking for students who would like to be actively involved! (2/3 hours a week).

Organisation

Stichting Boerengroep aims to close the gap between agriculture at the university and the reality and challenges of farmers and peasants around the world. It fights for a social, just and sustainable food production via activities in which we stimulate a critical view among farmers and students. For example, Boerengroep organises excursions, lectures, dialogues, workshops and movie screenings.

What are we looking for?

As a communication commissioner, you will be making the promotion of Boerengroep activities. You'll be working with our premium Canva account to do so. We're currently using signal, instagram, our newsletter and our website to promote activities. We're also poster on campus and other places and sometimes we're using the big screens at university. You're also very welcome to shine your own light on the promotion strategy.

Furthermore, as a board member, you're invited to join the board meetings and to give your input on policies and upcoming activities. You can organise your own activities, set up working groups and/or help with recurrent organisational tasks as you like.

No experience needed, only some creativity and good energy.

What do we offer:

- Network opportunities in the agricultural sector
- Opportunities to develop your communication and organisational skills
- Free access to all Boerengroep activities and lots of fun!

What do we require:

- Affinity with agricultural topics
- Attendance at the board meetings (twice a month)
- Regular attendance at activities organised by Boerengroep

To apply or if you want some more information, send an e-mail to st.boerengroep@wur.nl with some information about yourself AND/OR come to the board interest meeting on October 21th at 18.00 at the Clockhouse.
